

So if the evidence suggests the news can stress people out, why do they keep going back for more? For one thing, it's entertaining, Davey says. The human brain is also wired to pay attention to information that scares or unsettles us—a concept known as "negativity bias".

show witch parts of the world are most news comping from